

Oluyemi Ayodeji Alade (Yemi)

February 6, 1978 - April 18, 2003

The oldest son of Olukaode and Lola Alade was born in Gainesville, Florida on February 6, 1978. He departed this life suddenly on April 18, 2003. Oluyemi was raised in Ibadan, Nigeria. He was educated in Ibadan, Nigeria. He graduated from the University of Ibadan Medical school in Ibadan, Nigeria in 1994. In 1996, Yemi returned to the United States to pursue a degree in Computer Science. He worked with the Decennial 2000 Census Project and completed an internship with N.A.S.A. during his college career. He graduated with Honors from Coppin State College in May 2002. Yemi enjoyed tutoring high school students as well as tutoring his own peers at Coppin State College's Math Lab. Yemi touched the lives of students, staff, faculty, and friends. He made lasting friendships wherever he traveled. Yemi was intelligent, fun-loving, patient, kind and was never too busy to help a fellow friend. He was a "people person." He was the type of person who would go above and beyond the call of duty to assist anyone, any time of day. If someone needed help, Yemi unselfishly lent a helping hand. Whether you needed help with math, computer science, biology, physics, chemistry, or just needed a ride home, Yemi was there. Yemi enjoyed spending time on the campus of Coppin State College, and hanging with his friends. He was blessed to have numerous friends who loved him. He was involved in many organizations on and off campus. Yemi leaves to mourn: his mother, Lola Alade; father, Kayode Alade; three brothers, and one sister, all of Ibadan, Nigeria. Also uncles, aunts, cousins and a special friend Ondrea Grant. He also leaves to cherish his memory: his best friends, Tosin and Toyosi Ashafa, Adeyinka George, Lolu Obe, Quadril and Biola Animashaun, Leye Omishore, Kingsley Ihejerika, and Tunde. Additionally, he leaves to mourn his “Coppin State College” family.

“ It's been so long since you left this earth. I planned your funeral, wrote, and created your obituary. As Dr. Sommerfeldt put it so eloquently, I did all the work behind the scenes. Who knew meeting you while working at the Census would mean you would be in my mind and now my heart for a lifetime. I've been thinking all these years of what to say because all I could remember is just telling myself to push thru the tears. Push thru the pain, get it all done so that you could have a nice service. I visit your grave often, although it's been awhile. At first, it was very difficult, and I couldn't go without getting emotional. As time went on, it got better and I learned to find peace there.

I think back, and I remember how exciting it was that with your roommates, we were able to collect enough money to pay for your funeral and plenty left over to send home via your Uncle Remi. The adrenaline of meeting that financial goal was exhilarating, but then the reality took the wind out of me that although we collected enough, you were gone, and not coming back. The reality sets in of seeing you just a few days prior to you leaving us, and yet I was too busy to talk to you, and when I did go in the hallway to find you, you were already gone. That would be my last time ever seeing you alive. That moment, from the time you were calling me, as I walked to the building, and in my haste, I ignored you calling my name is a mistake I have had to live with and continue to live with in agony the rest of my days. Its forever burnished in my mind. I'm so sorry that I didn't take the 5 mins. You were a sweet, kind, gentle soul and a great friend. Every time I hear the word census, I forever think of you and all the fun we had jumping from computer to computer, competing against each other to see who could finish their work the fastest, and I smile. I remember the conversations about us sharing similar heart palpitations. I often think of it all and till this day, I still wonder what I was supposed to learn from it all. I think how and why our destiny was to meet and part in the way it did. I'm still searching for the answer, after all this time, but one thing is for sure, you will never be forgotten.

“ To the family: I just want to express my sympathy to the family. I also want to share some encouragement about your loved one. Death is a real enemy and it is very heartbreaking. But the Bible assures us at (1Corinthians 15:26) that death is to be brought to nothing. That same chapter, verses 21 and 22 speaks of a resurrection, so there is hope of seeing your loved one again. That will happen in God's New World. AS you read your Bible, I hope it will bring some comfort to you.##imported-begin##Ruth Thomas##imported-end##

“ Baba yemo,its me o junior. you always ask where did i get junior from, I never answered you. cos u were always joking, so when i first heard about your departure to the great beyond i was shocked and went straight into denial, even when your body was lowered six feet under, that was after ur loving and kind spirit was on the right hand side of heavenly father. i taugt someone was going to say it is a joke or it was a mistake. But now that i know physically you are not here anymore. i think everything happens for a purpose, you were always teaching on earth and your death as taugt me especially a lesson and i guess God as a reason for calling you home at this early age. I know by now your soul would have started resting in a perfect place and God almighty has sent an angel to console ur loving family. Till we meet to part no more there is a special place for you in my hearth.##imported-begin##Bamikole Omishore(jay)##imported-end##

For those of us who had the opportunity to know you, you were a blessing to us. It is not given unto man to be immortal but some of us mere mortals triumph over death; we know you are up in heaven and when we reminisce on the times we shared a soft smile crosses our lips and at that point we are together again because your memory lives on...rest in peace.##imported-begin##Ubong Udoyen##imported-end##

Now that is your gift to me and I am grateful. Our soft conversations and whispers... It is truly a gift. You are a great cook, you are so gentle. You are also hard to figure out so I stopped trying. I will always have fond thoughts of you. You know I can never stay mad at you because you always have a way of touching my heart. You worked your magic again during our last conversation. “ Yemoli...till this day ,i'm yet to come to a realization that you're gone.It's no secret that ever since I got to know you,I've taken pride in mimicking things you did and the way you did them. From the smallest things like the way you tied ur shoe laces, to the way you taught me how to pick up speed on the ramp and switching lanes to to main highway. It'll take forever to tell all u did 4 me, yet I think that's the least i could do for you. I dread so much, the fact that as time go by, images and memories of you when u laugh, frown or even make commentaries when we watch sports(Zidane's dribbling, Tyson getting knocked out)will fade in our minds. I thank you for everything you've given or done for me and everyother person you've touched. “ As a I stare at your face, as I look into your picture.... I see you as you were and I see you as you are.... A son who has fought the good fight and now has taken his leave to be an angel living amongst the great angels of heaven... As a human being, my heart mourns your loss for death it seems managed to lay its icy hands on your mortal soul... And then I look into your eyes and I see that you look down from the heavens with sadness in your heart... Yes. I see the sorrow in your eyes, for you mourn the existence of mankind in this world of pain and ugliness.... Like a distant echo I hear you speaking of the beauty and tranquility that has become your very inheritance..... You lived like an angel and now you are an angel... I never met you, but you through your friends I have come to know you, through your life, I have come to appreciate you, and through your death, you remain forever alive in my heart and in the heart of all those who were lucky enough to have you in their lives... Though you body be dead, your legacy lives on till eternity becomes a slave to mortality.... You are gone, but never forgotten.... And so I say farewell to our departed angel.. until that day when we all shall meet again in that place called paradise##imported-begin##Tolu Olorunnisola##imported-end##

Your smile--a reminder of your positive outlook on life; you definately loved life. Your drive--"focused" was your middle name. The thought of you is a reassuring force because of the calm you bring to situations. I hope you are listening 'cos I didn't get a chance to tell you just how special you are--your signature is with me forever. “ Yemi I did not know you, but from all I have read from those who knew you and were close to you I know you were definitely a blessing in all of their lives and I know you will surely be missed. May your soul rest in perfect peace...sun re o. Friends and Family: I pray that the God of comfort will send His angels of comfort to you all at this time, to keep you and hold you. May He bring some hope to you at such a time, and I pray that this will be a way for anyone that does not know the Lord to come close to Him as a result of this, and that Yemi's life will be a testimony to all that hear about it. May you all be blessed and encouraged in Jesus' name...Amen##imported-begin##Uniq##imported-end##

“ Yemi, my man, we were close, you explained some things I couldn't figure out, you thought me things not just about the books, but about living each day at a time, Lord knows I cant believe you're gone, the memories of the past keeps playing, how you called me Don chi-chi and how u laugh, how you mixed calculus with football and never missed a point. You named yourself "Sphinx" I just looked it up and was shocked, you said you saw the light when...., but you never finished the statement. I loved you like a brother and you treated as one, I miss you men, and I know you are watching over me, I would never forget things you told me, till we meet at the cross road. *“ Yemi, I get it now. You were sent to teach. That's why we talked about teaching before you left, that's why you were such a good tutor and that's why even now, in your absence you are teaching us lessons for life. It's like you are here...but not! and I'm having a slight problem dealing. Pls teach me. I need some answers. “ O.P, I still cant believe you are gone, I had plans of coming to spend a few days with you in May, but alas, Man proposes....., but only God really knows. We had great times together from ISI to UI and even some secrets better left unsaid.Who can forget your love for the game?. So many things left unsaid, so many questions unanswered, so many things we wish could be done differently, but that's just the way this life is here today, gone tomorrow. Lets endeavor to make the best of whats left of our time here on earth, Today its OP, it maybe me tomorrow or You,lets fall in step with God, so that give or take, today or tommorrow, the end of the story will be secure in Him. “ Yemi, I really cannot believe you are gone. I still cannot believe it. How could death do this to you? I still remember talking to you clearly the last time I saw you (remember seeing you at BR). Your character and intelligence were just incredibly great. You will be greatly missed. You truly will. I just can't comprehend the fact that you are gone; the great friends you left here. This death thing is evil, MEN. It's too much. Everyone here will always cherish the memories. I pray God will comfort and keep your family down here.##imported-begin##Dare Kumolu-Johnson##imported-end##
