

Patricia Black

November 4, 1942 - June 9, 2002

“God saw the road was getting rough, the hills were hard to climb, He closed our loved ones eyes and said, now peace is truly thine”. Patricia Ann Black “Cheta” was born November 4, 1942 in Baltimore, Maryland at city Hospital, to the late Myrtle Jones and Garfield Randolph. She departed this life on June 9, 2002 at home after a lengthy illness. Cheta attended the Baltimore City Public school system. She married Hoyt Black Jr. at an early age and became the proud mother of five children, Milton, Ronald, Kent, Raymond and Patricia (Pabby). Cheta accepted Jesus Christ as her personal savior at an early age under the leadership of Pastor Naomi Durrant. She later joined Triumph Baptist Church, under the leadership of Reverend Pompey Swann. Cheta loved her church. She was a dedicated member and willingly contributed her time and service. Her early endeavors included retailing clothing, and later she became the proud owner of the T & M Lounge. Cheta’s love for her customers and the community was shown by her generosity. She often sponsored parties for kids and donated to community events. She was always willing to give to someone in need. Cheta enjoyed her life. She found pleasure in shopping, playing bingo, decorating and traveling to Atlantic City. Throughout Cheta’s illness she never complained. She possessed great strength and courage. Her faith enabled her to endure her illness and accept the will of God. Cheta leaves to mourn: five children, Milton Tillman, Ronald Tillman, Raymond Black, and Patricia Brown (Pabby); one son-in-law, Gregory Brown; one daughter-in-law, Sandra Tillman, eleven grandchildren, Tirania, Milton Jr., Kentra, Ciarra,

Marcus, Marlin, Blair, Taylor, Kent, Danielle, and Sheena; four great-grandchildren, three sisters, Jean McClarin, Sylvia Phyll, and Helen Curbean; two brothers, Milton Randolph and Melvin Randolph; two sisters-in-law, Shelly Wright and Rosa Randolph; and a host of aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews, relatives and friends.
