“ This Quiet Place

Even in the midst of noise and clamor, there is a quiet place that I can retreat to a place where concerns are left behind and I am totally aware of being in the presence of God. This quiet place is nearer than the air I breathe, for it is within my soul.

Turning within, I feel the peace of God surrounding me in a warm embrace. Enfolded in peace, I experience how it feels to have every nerve soothed and my mind swept clean of confusion. Once again I am focused on the presence of God, my source of life and living.

My condolences to the family. I will truly miss her, sitting on the porch sharing stories of her life's work and childhood memories of our military children. The blessing of her wisdom will forever be in my heart. "Job Well Done"!

*Rest in peace "my friend",
Peace, Love, & Blessings,
Ayesha*
