

Rosemarie Taylor

September 14, 1955 - February 22, 2002

Rosemarie Taylor, daughter of Bertha DeGrace and the late August De Grace Rosemarie was born on September 14, 1955 in Baltimore, Maryland. Rosie the youngest daughter of nine siblings departed this life on Friday, February 22, 2002. She received her education in Baltimore City. Rose worked many warehouse jobs, before becoming disabled in May of 1972. Rosie gave birth to her "Pride and Joy", baby boy Marlon, her one and only. This was the height of her life in everything she did or said; Marlon was a part of that goal. Her major accomplishment was accepting Jesus Christ as her personal savior. In later years, Rose married Antoine Taylor. Rosie acquired many friends in life; too many to name, but one who shared her pride and joy, Donald Shakir. She will be sincerely missed by all that knew her. She leaves to cherish her memories, a husband, Antoine Taylor; a very devoted son, Marlon Brown; her life long companion, Donald Shakir, her one and only grandson, Little Marlon, her mother, Bertha DeGrace; two sisters, Augustine Dixon and Sandra Dorsey, five brothers, Jerome Newman, Benjamin Newman, Michael DeGrace, Donald DeGrace and Patrick DeGrace, numerous nephews, nieces and a special niece, like a daughter, Angela DeGrace; two sisters-in-law, four brothers-in-law, godmother, Connie; and a host of relatives and friends.

ANGELS ALL AROUND
There were angels all around me,
And a smile was on my face,
And He said; Come my Child We are going to a better place
As I reached out and took His hands
The pain began to flee;
And if I could I'd surely say;
Thank God, at last I'm Free.
