“ Seri

Words can't explain the deep pain and sadness that I have felt since learning that you left this world. You were so loyal and dedicated to Emerge. I wanted to get you away from there any chance I could but it was like pulling teeth. I hate that your last moments were there but that's just a testament of the type of person you were. I'm glad that you met a lot of good people there.

I had to do one of the hardest things ever and tell our baby that you were gone. She had been asking about you each day so I finally told her. She didn't take it well. She cried her eyes out for you. We both loved you so much and will miss you forever. I have loved you for a very long time, over 20 years. It never changed with anything we went through. You were my best friend for so many years. You were one of the most selfless people I knew. Always giving, helping people and going out of your way for any and everyone. I remember when I first met you, initially I tried to brush you off and then I saw your smile and it was on. Your positive energy attracted me to you even more. Then when we would talk each and every day I learned how intelligent and intellectual you were. Knowing you over the years you were a super hero to me. You always figured out a way to make anything happen. You helped me decorate and move into my house and told me how much I inspired you to decorate a little as well.

I always admired how you would light up a room wherever you went whether in a supermarket, hospital, work or anywhere. Seri you were a light in this wicked world. I loved how much you loved your family and would always talk to me about them Carline, Pam, Tawanna, Antonia, Big bro D, Crystal, Tavon, Lou, Jaquan, (host of others). I hope you knew how you were loved by so many. My whole family adores you. Say hi to our twins. Love you babe...My Mr. Chocolate 🍫.

Tammy ❤️ 🥺 🙏

“ I just talked to you on Facetime a week before and we talked for a long time! I told you to take your durag off because you have no hair! you always responded with "Im tryna get my waves bruh!" lol! Then a few days after I called you and told you I missed ya and miss working with you, and you responded with the same. When I got the call, I lost it. We had many ups and downs, but through it all, your heart was bigger than your persons. I'll miss the laughs, the jokes, the wild things you would say that I would just shake my head at. The real convos about life and moving forward is somethin I will cherish forever. Love you bro.

“ You left me with these children that act just like you! I could cry a river but I'd rather remember the good times we shared through the years and even the bad times because they made us who we were/are. The laughs and jokes we shared surely outweighed the bad times and how we worked together for our children's sake! We finally got to that place where we could laugh and joke with each other and our kids were the better for it! Life has changed for me and most certainly for our kids! I'm still at a loss for words, but one thing I know is that you were a believer, so you'll catch these hands on the other side when I get there!

Fly high Ree the god! Your children and I were blessed to have you!

“Seri, you will be missed terribly by our family. I can't even begin to say what you have meant to us in your tender and loving care of my brother Paul for the past 21 years. We became very good friends and shared so many things together ,good and bad.

You became a part of the family.

I always tried to remind you that what you did in this life for these disabled guys mattered and was so appreciated.

I did not know that when I saw you that Tues or texted you Thursday night that would be the last time we spoke.

Your humor and jokes always made me laugh and you always saw the good in situations...I don't even know how I will deal with not having our nightly text ,call or Duo at 6 every evening.

You are definitely in our hearts and our memories..and I will leave you with this..as Paul would say to you thru the years and as John and I would say as we joked with you..." I love you Seri" !!

Godspeed. 🥺💔💔
