“ Please accept my deepest sympathies. And may you find comfort in the Holy Scriptures, family and friends. I found comfort in the Bible promise that we will see our love ones again. The death of a loved one can indeed be the most upsetting experience of a lifetime. Recovering from grief may take months, a few years, or even longer. Just remember the acute pain you feel in the beginning will lessen in time and life will gradually seem less bleak and meaningless. There is an empty space where before there was a living human. The Scriptures make it clear that we have no reason to worry about the dead nor to be overwhelmed by sorrow. This is because, in God’s due time, dead loved ones will be restored to life. There is so many questions people ask. Why did my love one have to die? Why did God take my love one? Will I see my love one again? What is the condition of the dead? Was humans created by God to die? Where are the dead? The Holy Bible gives the truth to these questions. And truth from the Bible is what gives us hope and comfort to endure.

There are two persons who knows how you feel deep within your heart, even when you speak no words. God know how you feel. (Psalms 51:17) Can you imagine how God felt when he saw his first born son die on the torture stake? God knows you need comfort and the scriptures gives us that comfort, especially when we are alone. One thing that can help you cope with your grief is to draw close to God and the resurrection hope. May Jehovah God give the family comfort and peace.
