“ My father, Wayne Suggs, was a force to be reckoned with when he walked this Earth, as was Stanley. I can remember back to when I was a little girl memories of Stanley and my dad being friends. Stanley was such a selfless, caring man who always went out of his way to lend a hand and to share a smile with those in need. It's very rare to find those people in life that stick by you, that treat you like family no matter what, and that is the entire Brown family. Just like my dad, he instilled this feeling of love and warmth whenever he was around. As devastating and difficult as this time can be, find peace in the fact that Stanley and my dad are riding their motorcycles together up in Heaven now, keeping watch on all of us down here and sharing laughs.

Ride on Stanley, you are so very missed, but your legacy will continue to shine through those who love you.

All our love forever,
