“ Today makes 5 years. 5 years I've raised your son without you. I'm sad that he'll never know how kind hearted you were. He's 5 years old now. Such a intelligent old soul. At times i think to myself when you died you came back into his soul. We had 18years of friends. You went away. And some how we still found each other when you came back. Thank you for every thing. You are missed.

“ I wish to express my sincere sympathy to the family during your time of sorrow. Please keep in mind the comfort that God offers when we face any kind of distress. Also, he is a refuge and strength for us, a help that is readily to be found during difficult times (Psalm 46:1). As you endure the days ahead, may God give you peace and comfort.

Delores Allen - September 05, 2012 at 05:08 AM

It's so hard to believe that someone so alive and vibrant is no longer with us. I saw Tavares that night and I just wish that he had followed his first thought when he told me that he wanted to go home. He gave me a big warm hug as usual and went about his night, doing his job. He was always a delight to be around. So family be proud of Tavares, he was truly a joy to anyone who knew him. I know that I will miss the big hugs and the even bigger smiles.

Marcia Mackall (Chocolate) - September 05, 2012 at 09:50 AM

“So will it be with the resurrection of the dead. The body that is sown is perishable, it is raised imperishable; it is sown in dishonor, it is raised in glory; it is sown in weakness, it is raised in power; it is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body. If there is a natural body, there is also a spiritual body.”

I would like to also express my sincere sympathy to the Jones family during this time of sorrow. I am a friend by way of my sister Kristy, but I could not-not share my funny memory of Tavares who named my sisters and I the three monkeys (hear no evil, see no evil and speak no evil) and my mom "Amazing Gracie". I'm Sure that he has done the same with many of you! I would like to leave you with these words of comfort " The Lord is my Shepherd; I shall not want. He maketh me lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name sake. Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me...." Psalms 23

TJ,

Our days go way back to roaming the streets of Emporia, trying not to get in trouble while it loomed around every corner. To me relocating to Baltimore and you being one of the first familiar faces that I bumped into on the humble. You would always say that if I needed anything while in Bmore, that you were always a phone call away. I believed that, because on several occasions you were there when I needed a hand. Each time, you always said the same thing: "That's what family is for". It's so sad to see you go, but with all the laughs that you've supplied here on Earth, maybe God needed such a gentle soul close to Him. And maybe a laugh or two also.

Love you my dude and you will never be forgotten.

Tj I still can't believe your gone, words can not express the way I feel.... Your EGRA crush Shavonne

Shavonne Sandlain - September 06, 2012 at 01:03 PM

TJ,

I feel so bad - I had no idea you were gone. I presumed you were enjoying life as usual. You were so good with people and I wish I had that trait within me.

I should have known something was wrong when I stopped hearing from you. I am so late with this and I can't get over the fact that you aren't here. I can't believe I won't see any more stories about you Milan and Christain . This is just so alarming for me and all I can do is cry.

So many times I wanted you to rise above TeeBees... But you loved that place and you gave them your loyalty ... Someone from TeeBees took you from all your loved ones and I am very upset . I don't know how to manage my feelings.

You were doing something you loved ... Helping ... Which is an positive perspective but I do miss you as well as many others .

To this day , I pray that you rest in peace - we love you , your are forever in our heart
