“ Please accept my sincere sympathy in this time of bereavement. Despite the pain that you now feel, you can find comfort now in the Scriptures. Jesus promises at Acts 24:15 that there is going to be a resurrection. Also at Revelation 21:4, Jehovah promises: "And he will wipe out every tear from their eyes, and death will be no more, neither mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore. The former things have passed away. We all have a wonderful future to look forward to based on the promises found in the Bible. There's a solid hope of being able to embrace your dear loved one again.##imported-begin##A. Robinson##imported-end##

“ I offer my sincere and heartfelt condolences for your loss. When we lose a loved one in death, it is truly the most painful thing to go through. I'm so sorry for your family. One day we will no longer have to bury our loved ones, because death was never a part of God's purpose, and he promises to end all sickness and death forever. Whenever you are feeling down, please reflect on this wonderful promise found at Rev 21:3,4 Look! "The tent of God is with mankind, and he will reside with them, and God himself will be with them. 'And he will wipe out every tear from their eyes and death will be no more, neither will mourning nor outcry nor pain be anymore. "The former things have passed away." One day all of the graves will be emptied of their dead, because they will hear the voice of the son of God, and they will awaken to everlasting life." May these wonderful promises be a comfort to you in the days ahead to strengthen and fortify you. Reflect on your cherished memories which death cannot erase, as you await the day when you will see Terry alive again. John 5:28,29###imported-begin##Rita Johnson###imported-end##
