

Thione L. Blanding

July 9, 1964 - November 5, 2016

Thione “Poozy” Blanding, daughter of the late Virginia Roberta “Berta” Blanding was born in Baltimore, Maryland on July 9, 1964. On November 5, 2016 Thione departed this earthly world to claim her wings with her beloved mother “Berta”.

Thione was raised in Reading, Pennsylvania where she attended Reading High School. She returned to Baltimore, Maryland in the late 80’s to raise her children.

Her last employment was at the Northwest Nursing Home where she worked for over 20 years.

Thione loved doing puzzles, crocheting and spending time with her grandson, Damar.

“Poozy” (as she was commonly known to her family and friends) was a loving mother, sibling and friend to all in her circle. She enjoyed life in which she always said when you greeted her “I’m still amongst the living” and she always loved herself by her saying “If I die let my snatch and catch go with me”. She was a fun loving lady but could go from zero to 100 at any moment, but those who knew her understood and tolerated it. She will be forever missed.

Thione leaves to cherish her memory: her loving children, Micheal Blanding, Tracey Blanding, Joseph Johnson and Kelly Johnson; one grandson, Damar Johnson, that she loved and cherished dearly; one sister, Cynthia Key; three brothers, Phillip Blanding, Andre Smith and Vernon Blanding; one brother-in-law, Troy Key; one beloved aunt, Thione Smith, who would help her ever day through her illness; her fiancée, Stanley Houston, who she loved unconditionally and whole heartily; and a host of uncles, aunts, nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.
