Vernon Amos Ledbetter was born on June 8, 1954 in Philadelphia, PA to the late Rovella Lillian and Amos Vernon Ledbetter. On June 10, 2019 in Baltimore, MD, Vernon peacefully departed his earthly body and went home to be with the Lord.

In 1955, Vernon and his parents moved to Washington, DC where he was raised. At a very young age, Vernon's parents noticed he was extremely talented and had an ear for music. He could read and write music, play the piano, trumpet and sing. Due to his musical ear, Vernon had the opportunity to play for the DC Junior Orchestra and eventually played solo trumpet in the DC Orchestra. In his later years, he played the trumpet in various jazz bands and recorded a CD with one of the jazz bands. He also taught beginner brass band for The Salvation Army Southeast, Washington, DC.

Vernon attended McKinley Tech High School in Washington, DC where he continued to pursue his love for music and played varsity football for 3 years. Over the past 14 years he spent many overnight weekend get-away with his in-laws and extended family.

Vernon was always full of life and adventure. One of the highlights of his life was passing his exam and earning his DC taxicab license. His family, friends and church family. He always enjoyed the crazy stories he had to share at the end of his day. In addition to music, Vernon loved to play cards, board games, and sit on the veranda. His distinct and infectious laugh could be heard roaring throughout the house while playing games or just spending time with his family and friends. He truly loved spending time with his entire family and was extremely proud of his daughters and grandchildren.
