

Virgil L. Selby

April 26, 1963 - December 16, 2025

On April 26, 1963, VIRGIL LAMONT SELBY was born to Glenn and Viola Selby at Blytheville, Arkansas Air Force Base. He spent most of his life growing up in Edgewood, Maryland.

We were blessed to share in his love and presence until Tuesday, December 16, 2025, when he was called by our Lord into eternal rest

In his youth, he enjoyed playing the drums for Baltimore County Majorettes Core. He was recognized for his tall stature and baritone voice. Virgil brought strength and laughter to all he knew.

In his loving memory, he is preceded by his father Glenn Selby and sister Sandra Nicholson. He leaves behind to cherish his memory: his mother, Viola Selby; son, Jordan Lions; two loving sisters, Yvette Selby and Valarie Greene; and a host of nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

“ Big Virg was a big kind man that he would help anyone with the means he had. Miss the days he would fall asleep in the living room and I would hear him snoring as soon as I came in the door 😂😂. You will definitely be missed. RIP big hommie 🙏🕯️

“ Virgil was a Big guy with a huge heart ❤️ He was a staple within the community in many aspects. Many knew him because he was always in or walking throughout the neighborhood where we lived. Although, he was big in stature he would never hurt a fly. He mostly, Loved kids and would always help out if he could. He remember when he bought my oldest daughter her 1st pair of roller blades. I was young and to put it honest; I wasn't motivated enough to get them. The “me” today wasn't the “me” back then for sure. At the time I really didn't relate to the need for these what I called, “UGLY 1 row” new skates and brushed the idea off but he knew how bad she wanted them so he bought them for her. There are far too many things over the years shoot it's been about 40 years total. So he helped me with many things like my moving countless times. Everytime I immaturely got tired of an area or because I was honestly spoiled in the sense of be young. So who would I call? Virgil.. my on house mover or that's what I thought and how I acted. He was #1 on speed dial 😂. He definitely was the KING of moving and packing. He could get an apartment emptied in no time. He could pack a storage unit using every single crevice of space from the floor to the ceiling. His height was a bonus for sure and also all those years at Bekins Moving & Hauling Company in Joppatowne. I'll never forget him. He gave as well as he received, always willing to lend a hand when asked. Honestly, excepting far less in return for the work or for helping others. Many times for free or “a cold beer for the road”, as he would say. Now Summer and him that was a whole 'nother story...Okayyy. He loved her so much and would do anything for her. I remember him turning his air on in his apartment, putting it down to the coldest it would go all night to keep Summer's birthday cake frosting from melting. It couldn't fit in the refrigerator. He thought it was so pretty. It was Disney's “Frozen” themed and I had paid so much for it and he wanted her to be excited the next day at the surprise party. So he stayed up to make sure it didn't fall over. He had his hang ups just like everyone else does and he was no different. One thing will always be true that he was never a big person on direct fussing or whinny complaining in my Experiences with him over the years. He took what he was given and moved ahead the best he could without a lot of complaining. Even after folks not treating him well he'd still help after at another time if they asked. Where many would write folks off. He didn't hold grudges. What was done was done. What he had he used without waste and was happy with it. Never materialistic or flashy. It didn't matter what others had, he just dealt with what he had and kept it movin'. Many knew him but few knew his heart ❤️ and that is where he shined the most. His big heart matched his love for others. He'll be missed walking along the byways in the neighborhood...I say today and always, take your walk on home Virg...your task here is done, you can sit and rest easy---Love Trena

(A few shared photos of the infamous cake 🎂 day of 2015...His little lady Summer's Birthday). I heard he still had her picture on the fridge all these years later. Truly showing how much he loved and cared for his little lady.
