

Woletta Ngola Daniels

February 25, 1943 - November 30, 2016

Woletta Ngola Daniels, affectionately called "Letti" by friends and family, was born in New York City, NY to the late James Lee Brown and Georgiana Josephine Thomas (Bramble). Hailing from a long line of West Indian descendants, she was part of the first generation born in the United States. Woletta spent her formative years in Harlem, NY, but also lived in Brooklyn, NY, and the Bronx, NY which was home for many years. It was in New York City, where she met her former husband and dear friend Allen Cason while working together at the U.S. Post Office.

Together they raised three daughters. She was employed at the New York Metropolitan Transit Authority as a clerk, assistant dispatcher, and later retired as dispatch supervisor.

After her retirement, she relocated to Glen Allen, Virginia where she found joy in a quiet life, but often enjoyed when family and friends came to visit her. In her leisure, she took delight in sewing, crocheting, watching Turner Classic Movies, completing crossword puzzles, and learning how to navigate the latest technology.

Woletta was one of a kind - a modest yet feisty woman who was fiercely independent. She was a loving hardworking woman who selflessly dedicated her life to her children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, always putting their needs before her own. As the Matriarch of the family, she will truly be missed She leaves to cherish fond memories three daughters -Tonjah Goods, Sdhari Cason-Payano (Roberto), and Mkeba Cason; four grandchildren -Tiara Williams, Naeema Stennett, Brianna Payano, and Anthony Payano; five great-grandchildren - Saniyah Williams, Jhamari Weaver, Kaaliyah Weaver, Jeremhi Weaver, and Quadir Weaver Jr.; one sister, Teda Davis (Hercules), and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, and friends.
