“Lanpy—my sweet “Lampy” from the very beginning,

I’ve called you that since I was a little girl, and somehow it still fits perfectly—warm, familiar, and full of love, just like you. You’ve always had the kind of hugs that make everything feel okay, the kind you never want to let go of. And your smile... it’s truly something special—so bright, so genuine, and so infectious that it lights up everyone around you.

No matter how much time passes, you’ll always be my Lampy—someone who brings comfort, joy, and so much love into my life. I’m so lucky to have you, and I hope you always know just how much you mean to me.

*With all my love ☐

“ I first met Yolanda at CoverVa, we worked in two different departments, we had day to day connections because of our work. She was very sweet and spoke very softly always had something kind to say. When I started at DMAS I walked around the corner on my first day and saw her face, we hugged each other and got caught up on our life changes. I then moved my office and then we were right across from each other. Yolanda was a very kind person, she never had anything negative to say always positive. If you needed any help she was the person to go to. I was heartbroken to hear of her passing, but I thought well God must have needed you more up there. My condolences to her family that she loved so much and her friends as well. May your memories of her beautiful soul, get you thru this difficult time.

“ I am in complete shock over the passing of my cousin, Lanpy. It feels especially hard because we had just spoken, and you were comforting me during the loss of my brother. Your passing was so sudden, and my heart is deeply saddened. I will miss you more than words can express.

I will forever hold the memories of you close to my heart — like the time you showed me how to ride the city bus when I was scared. You took several buses with me, and it felt like we walked for hours downtown, just so I wouldn't be alone. I'll always cherish the summers we spent together at Grandma's house, filled with laughter, love, and unforgettable moments. And I can still hear you calling my name before I even saw your face, whether you were across the room or around the corner. Your voice always stood out.! Im gonna miss that.

I will miss your beautiful spirit, your infectious smile, and your warm, loving personality. You were truly a woman of God, and your light touched everyone who had the blessing of knowing you. Though you are no longer here with us, your love and the memories we shared will live in my heart forever. My condolences to the family.
